On smell.

Like so many things in life, our sense of smell is something that we take for granted. And yet it is always there, cataloguing special moments in our minds. Years later the very same perfumes will come to us at random, steaming open the envelopes in our minds and spilling the contents. Or at least that's what my own sense of smell means to me. It is watching roses grow in the garden of our home as a child, fascinated by what nature could push from the soil and the heavy scent that would unfurl with their petals. It helped that, fully grown, these beautiful blooms were just the same height as me, perfect for dropping my nose into and inhaling deep lungfuls of their perfume. My mum loved roses and our garden at home was filled with all kinds of varieties. My favourites were the ruby- red Ena Harkness and the sunshine-yellow petals of the Peace rose, the edges pink as if tinted by the sun.

Final Christmas Willow Weaving Course

I will be running my final Christmas Willow Weaving Day course in Beckbury Village Hall on Saturday November 4th 2023, for ten people from 10:00am to 4:00pm. I will provide the willow and some equipment. Beginners will tackle a simple star to start with which can have, e.g., tinsel, LED lights &/or ivy and ribbons intertwined to make a hanging decoration. Other items that can then be tried, include 2D or 3D Christmas trees, stars of various other designs, wreaths, small reindeers, angels, mince pie platters, bells, balls, bauble holders and 'scribble' Christmas trees and stars. If you have attended a previous course you may wish to do your own thing from the start – the instructions for a range of items will be available.

The cost will be £35.00 per person, which will cover the hire of the village hall and the willow. I will give my time free! Any spare willow left at the end can be taken home to make further items.

Please get in touch as soon as possible if you are interested and I will provide further details when I confirm your place on the course (please provide an email address). Dee Holes: 01952 750756 or deidreholes@gmail.com
